WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Falling gavel in both senate and house on the stroke of noon sent the new deal 74th congress away on its long and important legislative career today, with the south in the saddle, but with the reins of control held by President Roosevelt.

Crowded galleries watched the get-away, as "Texas" John Garner, vice president, rapped the senate to order, and tall somber South Trimble, Kentucky, clerk of the house, brought the noisy house floor to some semblance of quiet. He soon turned the gavel over to Rep. Joe Byrns of Tennessee, the new speaker.

In the corridors and about the capitol were hundreds unable to gain admission because of lack of gallery space. Even members were unable to produce tickets for friends and relatives to see them take the oath.

Swear In New Members.
In both houses, the swearing in of new members began immediately after the roll-calls. To expedite the business the house membership took the oath en masse. The senate, being somewhat dignified, administered the oaths of 30-odd new members in batches.

The house, always boisterous, presented a show.

For the first time in history, they permitted sound movies to be taken of the opening, and the great oblong chamber was glittering in the bright light and messy with picture paraphernalia.

To add to the confusion, an unusual (Continued On Page Fifteen)

PA NEW OBSERVES
An aged New Castle resident was seen as the victim of a serious accident on East Washington street, Wednesday afternoon—all because of a careless young man on a bicycle. As the elderly man was crossing Washington street near the corner of North Mill, the bike rider made a sharp turn around East Washington and North Mill. He struck the aged man at the edge of the feet. It was fortunate that the old man was not hurt.

PA New learns that on Tuesday night the temperature was 5 below zero on the Samuel Young farm, near Volant.

PA New won't say who it was, of course, but nevertheless an attorney, purchasing stamps at the new post office yesterday, asked this question of the clerk: "Is it possible to mail a letter here?" Explaining quickly, he added "I can't get the old building out of my head and I keep thinking it's still the post office." Well, PA New knows three or four who have dashed up to the old building within the past 24 hours for their stamps.

Hundreds of ice skaters enjoyed Wednesday night's perfect skating weather. The ice was smooth and solid and unless there is a radical change in weather should be good for some days to come.

Damage Of Approximately $500 Results From Blaze
On Beckford Street

FIRE DISCOVERED BY MAN PASSING BY

Fire which started in the attic of the home of Gurth W. Rapson, of 916 Beckford street at 10:30 this morning, caused damage of approximately $500.

The blaze was discovered by Frank C. Summers, who was passing the scene in a machine. He notified the occupants of the home who summoned firemen by telephone, an alarm being turned in from Box 48.

When firemen arrived on the scene, the fire was making rapid headway underneath the roof, but was quickly checked.

There was no lack of help at the blaze as today is payday for the city employees and most of the firemen who were off duty were at Central station waiting to receive their checks when the alarm came in. They accompanied the B. truck company to the scene of the blaze and assisted in putting out the fire, along with No. 4 and No. 5 companies.

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—President Roosevelt denied himself to all visitors today and worked on his annual message to congress and the budget.

The message has been completed in draft form, but needs some "final polishing," it was explained at the White House. The budget also is in final form.

Mr. Roosevelt has given extraordinary care to the preparation of his message. He originally dictated it from longhand notes. Some portions of it have been re-dictated several times.

The message will require about half an hour for delivery at the president's usual speaking rate. It is expected Mr. Roosevelt will face the joint session in the house chambers between 12:30 and 1 p. m. (EST) Friday.

TWO MEN DEAD IN NEW YORK FIRE

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Two men were dead, 13 were in hospitals and 30 others were nursing minor injuries today as a result of a fire which demolished a four-story tenement house in Brooklyn last night.

The two men, both firemen, were killed when a stairway collapsed beneath them.

More than a score of firemen were on the stairs when they gave way and all were pinned beneath wreckage in the cellar of the building.

The dead were Lieut. John T. Seeman and Fireman Cornelius Healey.

COLLISION OCCURS IN EAST RIVER

Freighter And Steamer Col-

Sinks As Result

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Officials of the Colonial Line announced today that all but four of the crew of the Providence Steamer Lexington which sank after a collision last night under Brooklyn bridge had been accounted for and that they were confident that all the passengers who numbered 126 had been taken off safely.

One of the most thrilling rescue scenes ever enacted in New York harbor was witnessed by thousands from the east river bridges and the shore as tugs took some 170 persons, passengers and crew, off the Lexington which sank in ten minutes after it was almost cut in two by the freighter Jane Christensen.

Four Missing
Names of the four crew members missing were given out this morning by J. B. Dunbaugh, vice president of the line. They are:

S. Rasmussen, sailor.

J. Fernandez, oiler.

R. Zarrero, fireman.

J. Parr, coal passer.

Divers were lowered into the icy depths of east river this morning to search the shattered hull of the 44 year old vessel for bodies.

Because sound steamers make no passenger list except for those registering for staterooms, there was no certainty that all the passengers had been saved.

Captain George Fried, former master of the President Roosevelt and the America on which he directed several epic rescues himself, took over investigation of the accident today. Captain Fried is now supervising investigator of the Bureau of Navigation and steam boat inspection.

First among the witnesses he will call will be Captain John A. Wickman, master of the Jane Christensen, and Captain William Pendleton, master of the Lexington.

A check of the hospitals this morning indicated that none of the 22 persons rushed to their care had been seriously injured.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The 74th Congress, fresh from the people, and containing more Democrats and fewer Republicans than any congress in history, convened on Capitol Hill today to take the Roosevelt New Deal into a new and more permanent phase.

Its predecessor, the 73d, came to its constitutional death at noon, the same hour at which the 74th met, although it had been in recess since last June.

The 73d Congress, born of the depression's depth and the desire of the people for a change, was the congress of bold experiments and radical innovations in economic legislation.

STATE PROSECUTOR TELLS JURY STATE WILL PROVE HAUPTMANN IS GUILTY

Wilentz Outlines State's Case So Feeling-ingly That Defense Asks For Mistrial — Court Refuses Motion —
Hauptmann Pales As State's Attorney Refers To Him As Baby's

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

COURT ROOM, FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 3.—In an atmosphere tense with drama, Attorney General David T. Wilentz, head of the prosecution's legal battery, today launched into the state's opening address to the jury at the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the German ex-convict accused of slaying the Lindbergh baby.

Spectators, including Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife, Anne Morrow Lindbergh, thrilled to Wilentz' words as shortly after he began talking at 11:18 A. M., he thundered:

"The man who murdered this child sits in this courtroom."

Hauptmann seemed to flinch as Wilentz's accusation reverberated through the quaint old courtroom. The prisoner sat, between two armed guards, pale as a ghost. Beyond a slight twitching of his mouth he displayed no emotion.

Mrs. Anna Hauptmann, the defendant's wife, took a handkerchief from her pocketbook and wiped her eyes.

Anne Lindbergh stared at the floor with burning eyes. Col. Lindbergh stared straight ahead. His ruddy face paled for the first time as Wilentz described how the murderer ripped the child's sleeping suit from it.

The jury had been completed at 11:01 a. m., much sooner than had been anticipated.

Starts Opening Address
There was a five-minute recess, a brief delay after court reconvened and then at 11:18 a. m. Wilentz, a man of about Hauptmann's age, which is 37, began the state's opening address.

Wilentz, dark-eyed, dark-skinned, with black hair streaked back from the forehead, put his hands in his pockets as he started to talk to the jury of eight men and four women. In a conversational tone, Wilentz started off with the declaration: "Not only the striking of the blow but the death caused by it in this case took place in this court."

And then came the bombshell. Removing his hands from his pockets and gesticulating, Wilentz thundered:

"The man who murdered this little child sits in this courtroom. The state is prepared to prove he came to that house intent on stealing that child and that he did steal the child."

"And that as he was going down the ladder it broke and the child was killed in the fall."

Col. Lindbergh half hid his face in one hand as Wilentz showed the murder charge against Hauptmann.

Hauptmann Unmoved
Except for the slight twitching of his lips, Hauptmann was an unmoving gray statue. He sat there, a concentrated expression on his face, his beady eyes directed at the back of Wilentz's head.

Proceeding in a calmer tone of voice, Wilentz charged that Hauptmann personally answered the advertisements inserted in a newspaper in the Bronx, New York City, by Dr. John F. ("Jafie") Condon, who was acting as intermediary for Col. Lindbergh in an effort to contact the kidnapers of the baby.

Wilentz traced the alleged negotiations between Hauptmann and Dr. Condon which resulted in the paying of the $50,000 ransom on April 2, 1932, a month and a day (Continued On Page Two)

FAIR TRIAL CERTAIN FOR HAUPTMANN

All Indications Insure Justice

Presiding Justice Demanding Proper Procedure In Trial

JURORS APPEAR FAIR-MINDED

By LEIGH MATTESON
International News Service Science Writer

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 3.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann will receive as fair a trial under supreme court justice Trenchard as was ever given to a defendant in a major criminal case.

The justice is a ruddy, wholesome, almost benign person, with the happy faculty of inspiring trust in his reasoning powers and faith in his impartiality.

In fact, his conduct of the case to date establishes a precedent for the management of trials which have seized vast public attention. Although the justice constantly reminds jurors, witnesses, the assembly members of the press and the few more spectators able to crowd into the courtroom that "this is a very important case," he never permits his knowledge of this fact to creep into his mannerisms.

Justice Will Be Done
There is nothing of exaggerated dignity in his honor. On the contrary, he already has managed to make everybody present, probably even Hauptmann, believe that justice will be done, and nothing but justice.

In consequence, the trial is proceeding in a genuinely folksy manner, as if everybody present were gathered there to mull over carefully every detail of the evidence connecting Hauptmann with the murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr. Efforts of the various members of defense counsel to indulge in forensic pyrotechnics were checked at the outset by Justice Trenchard.

The jurors also exhibit qualities of fair-mindedness not usually discernible in groups thus carefully chosen to pass on evidence in spectacular criminal cases. All were eager and yet not too eager to serve on the jury in the celebrated case.

While many members of the special jury panel were rejected because they already were convinced of Hauptmann's guilt, none were rejected because of their belief in Hauptmann's innocence, the accepted members displayed an active desire to withhold judgment until all the evidence had been presented at the trial.

Mrs. Hauptmann has relaxed, perhaps for the first time since her husband's arrest. She sits demurely erect, but the deep scars of anxiety have been smoothed from her face.

Colonel Lindbergh fidgets a lot, but follows closely the word of testimony, often cupping a hand to his ear when witnesses speak indistinctly.

CONGRESS CONVENES; TO FURTHER NEW DEAL

the AAA, the RFC, and HOLC, the FERA, and the rest, expire by statute between now and June. They will be given new leases on life, although in some instances reforms will be insisted upon and changes made in the light of experience the past year.

Republican Opposition Only Vocal
Republican opposition is nil—although it will be vocal. At their lowest ebb since the Civil war, the Republicans are outnumbered 3 to 1 in both branches. And there is little cohesion or unity among those Republicans who are left. The old cleavage as between progressive and conservative is still the Republicans' cross of sorrow.

The Democrats have their share of cleavage, too, the same kind, but their numbers are so overwhelming in both senate and house, and the respect for the power of the White House so great, that it does not seem possible at the outset of the new session for Mr. Roosevelt to lose control. There are plenty of blocs, the inflation bloc, the radical agricultural bloc, and the blocs that favor advanced labor and social legislation, but they do not bulk large in the general picture.

Little Actual Heat
The belief is general that the Democratic blocs will make much oratorical smoke and produce little actual heat. The power of the executive is too great; the methods of punishment are too numerous. Besides, there are few members of congress, especially the numerous new ones, who delude themselves that they were given a vote of confidence in the November election. They know it was Mr. Roosevelt who got that vote.

No chief executive has ever faced a new congress with the power and prestige with which Mr. Roosevelt faced the 74th today. That will go a long way toward curbing rebellion in his own ranks, and subduing the normal opposition that might be expected from the minority.

Congress May Vote Bonus
Under the whip and spur of the greatest pressure the veterans' lobby has ever exerted, congress will vote to pay off the soldiers now instead of waiting until 1945—and it may pass the legislation again over Mr. Roosevelt's veto, just as the 73rd congress disregarded his veto last spring in the restoration of veterans' cuts. Veterans' representatives assert they have the pledges and the votes; administration spokesmen do not deny it. Time and development will determine.

Another fight that will be savagely bitter, with the outcome in doubt, will come when and if the administration makes a serious effort to put the United States into the League of Nations.

of Nations' World Court. If and when that fight comes, Mr. Roosevelt will lose the support of his most ardent progressive supporters in the senate, men like Johnson of California, LaFollette of Wisconsin, and Norris of Nebraska, as well as a good many Democrats. It will be the old league fight all over again, with added bitterness because of Europe's debt defaulting, and constant gesturing toward new wars.

Just how far President Roosevelt will go in proposing new measures to relieve the terrific federal relief load and to make further inroads into the giant army of unemployed will not be immediately revealed.

Tomorrow, Mr. Roosevelt will personally address both houses in joint session on "The State of the Nation." He will look backward with considerable satisfaction on what has been accomplished in 1934, and view 1935 with great hopefulness. His message will be a general survey and appraisal, rather than specific. The specific proposals will come along later, after the budget message, scheduled for next Monday, and after organization preliminaries are cleared away.

STATE PROSECUTOR TO PROVE TO JURY HAUPTMANN GUILTY

after the baby was stolen from his crib at the Lindbergh home in Hopewell, N. J. The ransom was paid by Condon at a cemetery in the Bronx to a mysterious "John" while Lindbergh, a short distance away, sat in an automobile.

Wilentz dwelt on the payment of the ransom money, saying: "When Condon passed that box with the $50,000 in it to Hauptmann, what do you think Hauptmann said? He said: 'Wait a minute, Doc, till I see if it's all right.'"

"Work Is Perfect"
"Hauptmann plunged his hand in that box. He felt the money and he said to Condon: 'Your work is perfect—your work is perfect.'"

Wilentz said that the note which was given to Condon directed Lindbergh to go to Gay Head and that the colonel went there by plane. And he proceeded, Lindbergh "who could find any speck in the world," could not find the child.

"Why?" asked Wilentz. "I'll tell you why.

"Because Hauptmann had murdered the child!"

Wilentz said that when Hauptmann took the $50,000 he "knew that the baby lay dead—face down in the rain in New Jersey."

Wilentz described how the child's body was found by a negro.

The four women and eight men of the jury sat transfixed.

"That was the little eagle," Wilentz shouted.

After describing the finding of the baby's body near a road in New Jersey not far from the Lindbergh home, Wilentz told of its identification. He said:

"There was the high forehead and the blonde curls; there was that typical nose; there were those overlapping toes.

Body Identified.
"Anyone could tell who it was lying there."

Colonel Lindbergh looked at that body, identified it and the ashes later were sent to him."

Wilentz charged that Hauptmann used the ransom money for luxuries. "He wanted luxury and he got it," Wilentz declared.

In a voice that shook the quaint old court house, Wilentz went on: "When we arrested Hauptmann what did we find? We found he worked and bought wood in a lumber yard."

"But more. One rung of that ladder came from his attic. 'We will show you where that rung was sawed out of his own attic.'"

"He's got that ladder right around his neck," Wilentz cried. "Long before Hauptmann's arrest the ladder's wood was traced to a Bronx lumber yard."

Motive For Crime
Wilentz pointed out that usually there is a motive for a crime. In this case, he said, it was money. He assured the jury Hauptmann had no reason to have any enmity for Lindbergh.

Wilentz told of the finding of $14,500 in Hauptmann's premises after his arrest and also of the finding of a $20 Lindbergh ransom bill in his possession when he was seized.

Wilentz charged that Hauptmann wanted the ransom money to speculate with. He shouted: "He wanted money to gamble, speculate, he even used Lindbergh money to buy sweepstakes tickets. He speculated during the depression. He bought a $400 radio. 'He wanted money. He had planned this thing to get money—money—lots of money—he wanted it and he got it.'"

Wilentz, in concluding, thundered: "This state will not compromise with murderers. We demand he pay the penalty for first degree murder."

lawyer and chief counsel for the defense, at once moved for a mistrial on the basis of Wilentz's impassioned opening address, which Reilly characterized as "improper and prejudicial."

Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, presiding, said: "Motion is denied. 'Exception,' boomed Reilly. Hauptmann paled as Wilentz lashed him. The muscles of his face tightened and his chest heaved and labored.

Colonel Lindbergh sat motionless, flushing occasionally. Anne Lindbergh sat like a chiseled granite.

Assistant Attorney General Robert Peacock walked over to Anne Lindbergh and gave her a paper to sign.

Peacock then produced a huge sheet of pictures and laid them on the prosecutor's table. Among them could be seen several greatly enlarged photographs of the Lindbergh baby.

Two maps and two charts were tacked on the wall in front of the courtroom.

The first witness was called at exactly noon. He was Walter E. Roberts of Flemington.

First Witness
Roberts, a long-faced man, testified he is a surveyor and engineer, a graduate of Swarthmore college and a former county engineer.

Pointing to one of the maps, Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck asked him to identify it. Roberts said it was a map of the area taking in the Lindbergh estate, which he had drawn.

Attorneys for both sides gathered around several rolls of blue-prints and charts the state will offer in evidence.

Taking a long, wooden pointer, Roberts pointed out lines representing roads, trails, highways, cleared space and forests. The map showed part of Somerset and most of Hunterdon counties. Prosecutor Hauck offered the map in evidence. It was marked for identification.

Pope objected to the admission of the map as inaccurate because certain distances were not "actually measured and are merely approximately correct."

The map was admitted to evidence after the state explained it would be used only for the "purpose of illustration."

A chart was then introduced which Roberts said was a chart of the second floor of the Lindbergh mansion at Hopewell.

Hauptmann yawned as Pope cross-examined Roberts.

The forenoon session of court was adjourned until 1:45 this afternoon.

HEALTHY SOLDIERS

THE country will be interested and pleased to learn from the annual report of the surgeon general that the United States army enjoyed more perfect health during the last year than in any similar period of its history.

In certain other respects, however, the army was not so fortunate. Fifty-seven soldiers ended their own lives, while fifty-six were killed in airplane crashes. An even more serious toll resulted from automobile accidents, eighty men having met death from this cause.

In addition, the army's good health and exuberance of spirits were not without their ill effects. Greater participation in athletics resulted in a correspondingly greater number of injuries, 3,876 men having received injuries of one sort or another from accidents during games, with baseball causing a third of all mishaps.

However, the really important thing is that the army is, on the whole, in the best of health and, in consequence, is working and playing harder.

WHEN DOES LIFE BEGIN?

The author of a best seller concludes that life begins at forty, an answer which will be accepted as incredible by young folks just out of school who look about them, find the prospect fair and rashly conclude that they are just on the threshold of great adventure.

It is probable that no single answer will be acceptable and that the best of life's offerings come at varying times. For Alexander the Great, Shelly and Keats life was over and done with, and immortality attained, before youth had more than passed.

But on the other extreme there are Cato, who learned Greek at eighty; Goethe, who was the same age when he completed "Faust"; Teophrastus, who at ninety began his "Characters of Men," while Titian at ninety-eight painted his historic "Battle of Lepanto," and Tennyson at eighty-three penned "Crossing the Bar."

All of these instances of virility and artistic power in advanced years do not, however, belong to departed ages. At the age of seventy-three, Frederick J. Waugh, American artist, has painted "Tropic Seas," which has won the Carnegie Institute's popularity prize.

But these are all exceptions to a fairly general rule which finds men and women of advanced years in a condition of dependency and despair. They constitute one of the most important of society's responsibilities, one whose fulfillment will constitute a fair basis for judgment of the true character of our civilization.

TAKING POLITICS OUT OF POSTOFFICES

Senator Vandenberg's proposal of a law placing the entire postal personnel—with the exception of the Postmaster General—in the classified civil service is a challenge to the sincerity of the Democratic Party.

The President, by an executive order, has placed first class postmasters under the classified civil service—a "reform" that falls short in the performance. It is true that applicants go through a form of examination, but it is perfunctory. It is not a competitive test in the real sense and does not prevent the politicians from getting the man they want for the job.

Thus, while the Administration is professing reform, postoffices are still being used for the payment of political debts. It may be said that the Postmaster General should have the right to name first class postmasters. Very well, let him do so, but there should be no pretense that he is anything but a patronage distributor.

The Vandenberg bill will prohibit the Postmaster General from having any connection with political organizations or from being active in politics. It is inconceivable that this provision will be accepted by Congress. Mr. Farley can take a joke as well as the next man, but he will surely feel that this is carrying fun too far. But the bill at least will have the effect of placing Congress on record. It will have to decide whether the merit system in the Postoffice Department is to be a fact or a farce—Philadelphia Inquirer.

BEST-DRESSED WOMEN

What a fine national satisfaction we must feel from the knowledge that of the twelve best-dressed women in the world, three are American-born, although only two continue to make the United States their home. To qualify for a place in the select circle, it is understood that a candidate must do more than invest the sum of $50,000 annually with the dressmakers. She must have brains, poise and vivacity. These are qualities which would carry a woman far in other spheres than fashion.

The Parisian dressmakers who made the selections obviously have no insular prejudices. The twelve names disclose that a good customer may live almost anywhere on the globe. Among the countries represented are the United States, Holland, England, France, Italy, Spain, Egypt and India. In other words, anybody walking up and down the Rue de la Paix with $50,000 to spend on gowns and hats will get a hearing.

A long and momentous session of congress is forecast. It will be long, at any rate.

Now that the bills are arriving we realize more than ever that Christmas has just been here.

France believes that Germany can put 5,500,000 men in the field. She did even better than this in 1914 and of what avail was it?

The period from 1920 to 1930 has been designated by a topical historian as "The Mad Decade." It has been followed by "The Sad Decade."

Some day when we can get around to it there should be fitting honors for those prophets who predicted twenty years ago that the war would bankrupt the world.

CONVERSATION WITH A CAT

ME—Listen, Cat, you're a fine fellow and all that, but just what do you do around this house to earn your keep?

CAT—Listen, Man, I didn't know I—as supposed to earn my keep. I play with the baby, don't I? I let him roll me over and poke me and roughhouse me and I never scratch him at all. When he hurts me I miaow a little and sometimes I set my teeth gently on his hand, but I never bite him, do I? When he gets too tough I just move away—and isn't that doing something?

ME—Aw, that's not much. The rest of us do a little work now and then. The kids set the table and make their beds and they run errands and they mind the baby occasionally. The Lady of the House plans meals and takes care of the baby all the time and keeps us civilized. And even I do quite a few things. But YOU don't do anything but eat your meals and snooze before the fire. You could run outside and bring in the newspaper, morning and evening if you wanted—but you don't want. All you want to do is loaf. You don't even know any tricks, do you?

CAT—I know a lot of them, fellow, but I'm too smart to do them. And you know very well that YOU don't want me to do any. All that stuff is against your principles. I've heard you say so, myself. You like an animal to be naturally just himself. And deep in your heart you admire my indifference, my laziness, my sleek ways. You wouldn't really have me any different, now would you?

ME—Right now I would, Cat. Right now I'm annoyed with you. Don't you understand that these are serious times and everybody ought to help? Seems to me you could show a little interest in things occasionally.

CAT—Not me, Mister. Those serious times you talk about are human problems. They don't matter to a cat at all. You human beings got yourselves into these troubles all by yourselves. No cat would ever be guilty of a war or a depression or unemployment. Only a bunch of men could think up such devilishness. A cat minds his own business and sleeps when he's sleepy and plays when he's hungry and doesn't ask for more than he ought to have.

ME—No, I guess not. Don't talk so much. I've had enough of this conversation.

MEASURE VALUE BEFORE PAYING THE PRICE

What a lot of things you do to impress others. At the same time, you make yourself uncomfortable and displeased.

A woman tries to wear shoes that are too small.

A size larger would bring comfort, but would not show off the good points of the feet.

A man joins many organizations, not expecting to gain much; finally he realizes that he has more dues to pay than he can afford.

Perhaps he is a bit flattered to be asked to become a member, but he ought to use good sense, even if it deprives him of the associations he craves.

You know that joining an organization entails more expenditure than the initial fee.

You also know the retrenchments you must make in other ways to affiliate.

You think you have curtailed to the limit, why add more expense?

The also applies to women who are invited to join many clubs.

Many of the home quarrels, if you have them, are precipitated by unnecessary outlays made by either husband or wife or both, usually social expenses.

You punish yourself for what? To satisfy your ego or to please others, which?

Is what you gain worth the price you pay?

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THAT UNKNOWN SEA

In the last fourteen months 500 sealed bottles have been cast into the ocean near Hamilton, Bermuda Islands. Each bottle had a card inside asking its return to the government biological station at Hamilton. So far only forty bottles have been returned.

The purpose of this test was to prove the truth of an ancient theory that the Sargasso Sea in the Atlantic about which many stories, largely imaginative, no doubt, have been told and written. There is said to be a constant calm over this part of the ocean and this, with the wide expanse of seaweed, has caught and is holding fast many derelict vessels.

Old sea yarns tell of sailing vessels caught in this sea whose crews, unable to extricate them, perished.

In 1928, a British ichthyologist, named Mowbray, reported drifting seaweed in what is thought to be a part of the Sargasso Sea so thick and heavy that flying fish used it as nesting field for their eggs.

The disappearance of the bottles mentioned above, it is believed, indicates they have been caught in this strange sea which may not be as mythical as has been believed.

The World At A Glance

Wall Street Optimistic.
Brighter Prospects Seen.
Forty Years Ago.

Central Press
New York Bureau
235 East 45th street.

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Wall Street actually is looking for the New Year to begin with a spurt.

Wall Street even is looking ahead to next summer with great hope. The chief reason for this is the heavy winter precipitation over much of the chief agricultural areas.

STOCKS Stocks are likely to be motivated largely by inflationist or non-inflationist tendencies until congress adjourns.

The betting is for inflation. But the Roosevelt administration may be able to stop it.

POWER OUTPUT Electric power output is the highest since Feb. 1, 1930.

Figures for the week ended Dec. 23 show output only 3.87 per cent below the highest production figures ever achieved—which happened to be in the corresponding week in 1929.

IN JAPAN Popular opinion in Japan is, of course, unfavorably disposed toward the United States.

The people there have been led to believe that the United States is the nation imperialistically inclined.

The Japanese also resent the treatment of Orientals, on a racial basis, by the United States. They believe Americans are ruled by prejudice.

Great Britain has been more subtle. Rumor persists that Great Britain and Japan have an agreement—to do the Far Eastern trade, and to "defend" each other, if attacked.

The first test may come when the Chinese Communists drive General Chiang-Kai-Shek into a corner. Kai-Shek, nationalist president of China, now is reputed to be a tool of Japan.

TODAY?—40 YEARS AGO! Is every depression alike?

Read this by Henry George, in 1894:

"Land is the source of all employment, the natural element indispensable to all work. Land and labor—these are the two primary factors that, by their union, produce all wealth and bring about all material satisfactions. Given labor—that is to say, the ability to work and the willingness to work—and there never has and never can be any scarcity of employment so long as labor can obtain access to land. That the monopoly of land—the exclusion of labor from land by the high price demanded for it—is the cause of scarcity of employment and business depressions is as clear as the sun at noonday. Wherever you may be that scarcity of employment is felt—whether in city or village, or mining district or agricultural section—how far will you have to go to find land that labor is anxious to use (for land has no value until labor will pay a price for the privilege of using it), but from which labor is debarred by the high price demanded by some non-user?"

Where labor is shut out from land it wastes. Desire may remain, but effective demand is gone.

"At the close of the last great depression (1879), I made 'An Examination of the Cause of Industrial Depression' in a book better known by its main title, 'Progress and Poverty,' to which I would refer the reader who would see the genesis and course of business depression fully explained. But their cause is clear. Idle acres mean idle hands, and idle hands mean a lessening of purchasing power on the part of the great body of consumers that must bring depression to all business. Every great period of land speculation that has taken place in our history has been followed by a period of business depression, and it always must be so."

ALSO 40 YEARS AGO! Socially, if not economically, there has been a change in the world in 40 years.

Some occurrences no further back than 1894 now seem to have been in the Dark Ages.

It is only 40 years ago that England sent eight-year-old children to prison for stealing.

The children were kept in dark cells on a diet of moldy bread.

The growing bodies, crying for nourishing food, became crippled for life.

A warden who gave one of those tortured children a cracker was dismissed and denounced by a prison board.

Read Oscar Wilde's accounts of his own imprisonment and the sufferings of others during those Victorian days of self-righteousness.

We, too, have our days of self-righteousness. Every age has them. Life is a matter of evolution and contrasts. Even the crimes for which men are sent to prison become heroic deeds in another age.

History Up-To-Date, Jan. 3, 1935. B. C.—Marcus Tullius Cicero was born, destined to become the greatest orator of antiquity. Many a schoolboy, stumbling through his majestic Latin phrases 2,000 years after they were written, wishes he had never been born.

Cicero was exiled for saving his country! He foiled a traitor, but did it illegally (in Rome then a citizen could not be capitally punished save by sentence of the people in regular assembly), and all his oratory could not save him.

Jan. 3, 1661—A woman appeared on an English stage as an actress for the first time, as we know from Samuel Pepys' diary.

Mrs. Colman, the first public English actress, made her debut in the Seize of Rhodes, a musical play. Until her time, all of the women's parts were played by men, even those of Cleopatra, Rosalind and other Shakespearean characters.

Ann of Denmark, queen of James I who gave the English-speaking world the classic version of the Bible, had something to do with changing England's many, competing women actresses. She performed in privately staged plays.

Jan. 3, 1746—The phenomenon known as electricity was first noted in Leyden, whence the "Leyden jar" got its name.

Peter and Conaenus von Muschenbroek discovered the Leyden jar, or condenser. It was a thin glass vial, coated inside and out with tinfoil, and partly filled with water. A metallic nail inserted through a cork touched the water. When it was observed that a flash of light was produced as the charge produced within the jar was released by contact with a state of civil war existed."

Yes, but then as now public policy (Continued On Page Six)

Jan. 3, 1814—An American general was sentenced to death for treason because he surrendered to the British.

This was Eric Gen. William Hull, 61, hero of the Revolution, who gave up Detroit without a fight.

President Monroe commuted the sentence of the court martial, had him discharged from the Army.

Jan. 3, 1905—Another general, the Russian Stossel, became the national scapegoat of his country, by surrendering Port Arthur to the Japanese after a siege of 154 days.

Heavy December Tax Collections Gives General Fund Increased Amount

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Jan. 3.—Heavy December tax collections gave the commonwealth $1,671,101 in its general fund at the start of the New Year, treasury records showed today.

Boosted by $3,000,000 inheritance tax payments, December collections exceeded $10,000,000, enabling the treasury to pay all overdue school subsidies except Pittsburgh and Philadelphia and maintain a balance nearly $100,000 higher than the $1,575,619 balance on December 1.

The year-end automobile license rush pushed the motor fund balance from $1,631,439 on December 1 to $2,976,908 on January 1. Heavy Christmas sales in state liquor stores had a similar effect on that fund, which had a balance of $5,563,682 on New Year's.

December receipts were $51,964,081 and expenditures $48,751,122.

New Congressman Delays Selection Of His Secretary

Several From Lawrence County Are Seeking To Land Position

OAK PARK CEMETERY ASSOCIATION

This Company was chartered about 41 years ago, and during that time more than 2,500 people have bought burial lots and several thousand persons are buried there.

This Company started with the PERMANENT MAINTENANCE FUND idea—that is—a certain percentage from the sale of each lot is to be paid into this Fund, and The Lawrence Savings & Trust Co. was appointed as Trustee of this Fund.

This PERMANENT MAINTENANCE FUND has been faithfully and honestly kept paid up—it is the absolute property of the LOT-OWNERS, cannot be used by the Cemetery Association.

The last statement of the Lawrence Savings & Trust Co., dated November 30th, 1934, is: Principal amount of Oak Park Cemetery Permanent Trust Fund, $45,465.45.

To LOT-HOLDERS in OAK PARK—You now have $45,465.45 in your own fund—actually paid up.

The Association has dealt honestly and faithfully with you—now you see it that your friends and neighbors and relatives buy in Oak Park, and by so doing increase the FUND which absolutely guarantees PERPETUAL MAINTENANCE.

The PROSPECTIVE purchaser of a burial lot should protect himself by simple precautions such as:—

(1) Ascertain the reputation and past record of the management of the Company.

(2) Analyze the methods of selling lots—you probably only buy such a lot once—be wary of deceptive tactics.

(3) Find out about the Permanent Maintenance Fund whether it is honestly kept up.

(4) Compare the selling prices—see what you buy and what you get for your money.

ANN MILLER.
Entered into Supreme Court decisions. The Supreme Court couldn't declare that the North was wrong in sacrificing a million lives to end states' rights.

In passing judgment upon the conflict of 1861-65, the Supreme Court of the North was not an unprejudiced body; it couldn't be. Would the Lord Justices of England have condemned Britain for fighting the Americans in the Revolution?

The cost of living isn't what matters. It's the cost of living up to the children.

CAR PROBLEM IS CCC WORRY AGAIN

County Boys To Be Stranded
Here Unless Autos Are Soon Offered

A dozen or more cars will be needed Friday morning to transport Lawrence county's delegation of Civilian Conservation Corps fellows to Butler for an examination, the Federal-State Employment office announced today.

This afternoon the office was in search of New Castle car owners who will volunteer their machines for the trip.

There will be between 55 and 60 recruits in the party leaving the Y. M. C. A. at 11 a. m. tomorrow, the office said, and this morning their transportation had not been provided. Out of the group taken to Butler, 40 will be selected for camp.

The Lawrence county boys are to be examined at 1 o'clock.

Automobile donors, who will be free to return to New Castle upon delivering their boys in Butler, are asked to call 617 this afternoon.

Pay Check Thefts May Be Cleared Up

Arrest Is Made Of Negro
Charged With Cashing
Check Of Another

Puzzled for weeks over the mysterious thefts of RWD pay checks, authorities of the RWD here believe they have taken the first step in solving them, with the arrest of Edward Davis, negro, of Big Run street. Davis is in the county jail charged with cashing the check of James Thompson, negro, of Big Run street. He will be arraigned before Alderman Richard R. Lewis.

Thompson has filed a charge of forgery against Davis and further charges may be made by the postal authorities who are coming into the case.

Other arrests are imminent, it is said, for the rifling of pay envelopes belonging to men in the Quest street district. In the past thirty days nine RWD checks have been stolen and cashed. The checks come back to the RWD counter-signed and cashed but not with the signature of the RWD worker.

While the amount of money involved in the one arrest already made is but $450, the postal authorities will probably want to make an example of the man arrested if conviction can be had.

Fire Loss Last Year Was Small

Damage Is Only Third Of What It Was For Preceding Year, Figures Show

MOST OF LOSS WAS INSURED

New Castle's fire loss in 1934 was considerably smaller than the preceding year, the figures of Fire Chief H. Clare Stockman show. The total loss for the year was but $39,952.81, as compared with $113,490.31 in 1933. The most of the loss sustained covered by insurance, only $4,520 being uninsured.

The approximate value of buildings which were menaced by fires was $3,954,550, which carried $991,700 of insurance. The loss to the buildings amounted to $26,622.67 and the loss to contents was $13,065.19.

The various departments answered a total of 376 alarms, of which 46 were false or unnecessary. Fourteen alarms which the department answered were outside the city.

One call was answered to the Stevenson coal mine on the Youngstown road, where one man was killed and several injured when a mine car dropped on the cage they were in. Firemen furnished ropes and ladders to rescue them. They also furnished service at the Y. W. C. A. camp at East Brook, in pumping water to fill the swimming pool.

Social Legislation Described To Lions

Dr. Bennett Outlines New Proposals Likely To Face State Lawmakers

Dr. G. S. Bennett, chairman of the Lawrence County Emergency Relief board, discussed Pennsylvania's proposed new social legislation before the weekly luncheon of the Lions club on Wednesday.

Unemployment insurance, referred to by Dr. Bennett as the "most important piece of legislation likely to confront the present legislature," was explained at length. Because emergency relief in America is something new, he declared that the program in the future has been administered by "trial and error and mostly error."

He asserted that in the future economic wars, unemployment insurance will become "our first line of defense." He stated that no such first line exists today.

Dr. Bennett told the club that he believes the federal government will recommend a uniform unemployment insurance plan to the various states, establishing a fund to be administered by the states under federal supervision. Two different plans, the Ohio and Wisconsin plans, were reviewed.

During the growing costs of relief throughout the nation, the relief head said that in New York alone the relief bill totals $70,000,000 monthly.

The Lions heard reports of their blind party yesterday, Raymond Bennett, the speaker's son, was a guest.

Did you ever notice... in a roomful of people... the difference between one cigarette and another... and wonder why Chesterfields have such a pleasing aroma

Many things have to do with the aroma of a cigarette... the kind of tobaccos they are made of... the way the tobaccos are blended... the quality of the cigarette paper.

It takes good things to make good things.

Someone said that to get the right aroma in a cigarette, you must have the right quantity of Turkish tobacco—and that's right.

But it is also true that you get a pleasing aroma from the home-grown tobaccos... tobaccos filled with Southern Sunshine, sweet and ripe.

When these tobaccos are all blended and cross-blended the Chesterfield way, balanced one against the other, you get a flavor and fragrance that's different from other cigarettes.

Hospital Puts Service On $1 A Month Basis

(International News Service) KAMLOOPS, B. C.—The Royal Inland hospital has evolved a unique scheme of service. Twelve hundred residents of this city and district buy a "health ticket" each month which entitles them to free hospitalization. The dollar covers everything, both hospital and doctor's fees. They are entitled to three months' treatment at any one time and the use of the operating room, x-rays, laboratory and stock medicines. However, sufferers from alcoholic, chronic and social disease cases are barred from benefiting from the plan. The hospital now is paying its way and recently made a substantial payment on its main debt. Before the plan was adopted, it operated at a heavy deficit.

Rev. P. D. McCracken's Bible class entertained the Mountain Climbers class and a class from the Fairview mission on Friday evening. The evening was spent in progressive games which were greatly enjoyed by the young people. At a late hour refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Discussions of the far-reaching aspects of that great industry, which he described as the largest based on value of finished products, Mr. Francis asserted that it is appropriate that in the beginning of 1935 we discuss the automobile industry from an economic standpoint. First, he told the club, because "we are concerned about whether or not 1935 is going to take any encouraging strides out of the depression" and, secondly, "to note what progress in design and price appeal automobiles have."

Referring to the automobile industry as a barometer of our economic welfare, a most significant one, the auto man declared:

"Automobile production and sale depend upon purchasing power and follow the trend of anticipated requirements by industry, commerce and agriculture. You will note that we are entering the seventh year of this depression. The period of unparalleled prosperity began in 1922 and in the automobile business the graph line began dropping in August 1929 so that in this industry

Francis Speaks To Kiwanis Wednesday

'Automobile As Business Barometer' Is Auto Man's Luncheon Topic

The graph line is definitely upward in the automobile business," William A. Francis, motor car dealer, declared Wednesday as he addressed the Kiwanis club at The Castle on "The Automobile as a Barometer of Business." His message concerned the industry's past and future.

Discussions of the far-reaching aspects of that great industry, which he described as the largest based on value of finished products, Mr. Francis asserted that it is appropriate that in the beginning of 1935 we discuss the automobile industry from an economic standpoint. First, he told the club, because "we are concerned about whether or not 1935 is going to take any encouraging strides out of the depression" and, secondly, "to note what progress in design and price appeal automobiles have."

Referring to the automobile industry as a barometer of our economic welfare, a most significant one, the auto man declared:

"Automobile production and sale depend upon purchasing power and follow the trend of anticipated requirements by industry, commerce and agriculture. You will note that we are entering the seventh year of this depression. Win Back Pep... Vigor... Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait, use successfully for millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

Don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix kidney trouble, for they may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. # HAUPTMANN ON TRIAL IS STRANGE FIGURE

Little Emotion Is Being Displayed

Prisoner Sits Almost Immobile As Work Of Selecting Jury Proceeds

HOLDS GAZE OF ALL SPECTATORS

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 3.—A weird mechanical man, without human heart or nerves or emotions. A pathetic creature, inarticulate in a foreign land; an enigma!

This was Bruno Richard Hauptmann as the public saw him today.

He is the strangest figure in the annals of American crime, this old world criminal on trial for the murder of baby Lindbergh, and he holds the hypnotized gaze of all eyes in the crowded courtroom.

Though he has said nothing and done nothing but sit in his chair, Hauptmann is by far the most interesting subject at the great drama here.

Reveals Slow Grin

Only once have his features changed from their inscrutable blankness. Once his lips parted over his teeth in a slow grin.

That was when C. Lloyd Fisher, youthful defense counsel, lost his temper while questioning a prospective juror and shouted:

"I move this man be disqualified, he shows absolutely no signs of intelligence."

A moment later the impetuous lawyer regretted his cruel remark and had it stricken from the record.

But Hauptmann's grin did not fade until the red-faced venetianer shuffled out of the witness box and hurried from the courtroom. The most striking features of the prisoner are his color and his immobility. His color is yellowish-white, an unnatural prison pallor, and it is uniform, from his collar to the roots of his close-cropped hair.

Eyes Move Slowly

He does not move from the time he settles himself in his chair.

His oddly shaped head is immobile on a long, thin neck. His gray eyes, however, move from lawyer to lawyer, from judge to witness. They move slowly and they never blink. Occasionally his lids come down, but they do not blink. They lower and rise slowly, like the eyelids of an owl.

His nose is huge, both wide and long. His jaw is long and thin. His hands are thick and nerveless. Courtroom artists say his eyes are the most disquieting they ever have seen.

There is not a grim or set line in his face. He might be modeled of putty, it seems, and there is something poignant about him.

You wonder that this putty man should be on trial for so monstrous a crime. Then you think of the four years he put in during the war, in the trenches manning a German machine gun. There are few alive who did that. You think of his long criminal record in Europe.

The Lindbergh Trial.
We Lose Oxygen.
The Old Times.
Money Flows West.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

MR. GEORGE W. CLARK, an editor of New York, who knows news, says, concerning the Bruno Hauptmann-Lindbergh murder trial that begins today:

"I believe that he is guilty, but I am not sure that absolute legal proof of his guilt can be produced."

"I believe that he will surely be convicted, but I do not know whether he will be convicted legally."

ACTUAL legal PROOF, at this date, that Bruno Hauptmann or any other individual actually took the Lindbergh child from its father's house will be difficult.

But circumstantial evidence sufficient to convince the jury that the man accused committed the crime of murder, beyond reasonable doubt, is sufficient to convict. In many cases, circumstantial evidence is the most convincing of all evidence, more convincing than direct testimony. A witness may be mistaken, self-deceived or untruthful. Facts and circumstances will not lie.

CHAMPAGNE, even tightly corked, eventually loses the gas that creates the desired bubbles. So, according to Prof. H. N. Russell of Princeton university, a deep scientist, our atmosphere is slowly losing the oxygen that makes human life possible.

It leaks away, in some fashion, through the "work" of imponderable ether, that seals tightly the little layer of breathing gas that surrounds our planet.

LONG AFTER our atmosphere becomes unbearably, through lack of oxygen, human beings might continue to live here in small numbers, breathing electrolytic oxygen.

Air pilots now breathe oxygen artificially provided when they rise toward the stratosphere. But you need not worry for yourself or your grandchildren, because "the oxygen deadline will not be reached for another thousand million years."

Even then, science might extract sufficient oxygen from rocks that are full of it.

ON NEW YEARS DAY, "The Times" of London, called "The Thunderer," although it has occasionally whispered feebly, celebrated its hundred and fiftieth birthday. It appeared in London coffee houses, a little four-page sheet, with no signs of greatness then.

But within fifty years, the editor of "The Times" was called "the most powerful man in the country" by the British lord chancellor.

Once owned by Lord Northcliffe, "The Times" is now the property of Lord Astor, one of whose ancestors when "The Times" started was accumulating New York real estate, that made it possible for his descendant to become owner of "The Times."

ABRAHAM LINCOLN called "The Times" "the most powerful thing in the world, except, perhaps, the Mississippi." Its power was not in circulation, but in its influence on men's minds.

In the Crimean war, Sir William Russell, "Times" correspondent, exposed the horrible conditions under which British soldiers were living and fighting, and forced reforms.

In the "big" war, L. Northcliffe used "The Times" to warn his country against its mistakes. He was burned in effigy, but served his country.

The best known "Times" correspondent, who called himself Henri de Blowitz, learned in advance about the Treaty of Berlin in 1878, and published it in "The Times" on the day it was signed.

Mr. de Blowitz was an uncle of the distinguished American cartoonist, F. B. Oppen, and his real name was Oppen. He changed it to Blowitz, name of a small village in which he was born.

When J. D. Bourchier, "Times" Balkan correspondent, died, Bulgaria issued memorial stamps in his honor. Charles A. Dana wondered why there was "no great correspondent in Washington." Such a correspondent would have plenty to write about now.

The Times keeps no accredited correspondent in Russia. That is conservatism.

FARMERS, newspapers devoted to the farmers' interest, big bankers of the East, are interested in the fact that the money tide that for so long flowed from producers in the West to accumulators in the East is now flowing in the other direction.

The money tide goes out toward the farms of wheat raisers and stock in the West and Middle West, and to the cotton farmers in the South. It is as though the Great Lakes had been tilted upward at the eastern end, and the waters sent rushing toward the Rocky Mountains.

The tide will not flow long in that western direction, probably. Men that have the mortgages and collect the interest accumulate the money in the long run.

GEOLOGICAL EXPLORERS from the Jyrd expedition, near the South Pole, report important veins of mineral quartz discovered in mountains along the coast of Marie Byrd Land.

If the geologists should bring back actual samples rich in gold, how quickly men would find a way to reach those mountains, how indifferent to death they would be in the effort to get there.

We have piled up in Washington already eight thousand million dollars worth of gold. What would happen if Byrd should discover a mountain containing 1,000 billions in gold? That would be overdoing it, for instantly our eight billions in gold would shrink in value to almost nothing, and the gold metal would be only metal, not precious.

IN KANSAS, a terrific dust storm, hiding the sun, suggests that the Agriculture Department help farmers by developing some temporary cover-crop that could be sown on wheat and corn fields, when the crops come off, a nitrogen-fixing plant if possible. It would protect dusty surfaces from high winds and be plowed under, contributing humus, before the next planting.

In the Northwest, farmers have used the "duckfoot" cultivator, which cuts a path 60 feet wide, going through the roots of weeds and not destroying the protection of the stubble from wind and the washing of heavy rains.

Cascade Street Work Progresses

Fine Improved Highway To Be Provided Across Eastern End Of City

From Washington street almost to Croton avenue, Cascade street looks like the beginning of a communication trench in a war area at the present time. Excavation is well under way, and in some portions is finished. Base stone has been applied between East Washington and Rose avenue and each day sees an advance in the objective of the RWD men who are doing the work.

When the project was first discussed by East Side residents they had in mind some improvements to the street, but had no idea it would be made as complete a job as it is. When the work is finished Cascade street will be a thorough highway from the east to the Croton district, and with some amesite or similar topping will be as good a highway as any of the light type roads in the county.

Correct this sentence: "Women are equal to men," said she, "and I feel no safer at night with a man in the house."

Associates Pay Honor To Haun

"Bon Voyage" Dinner Is Given At The Castleton On Wednesday Evening

As a mark of the esteem in which they hold him, a group of business associates and friends of E. O. Haun tendered him a dinner in the Castleton Hotel Wednesday night. The dinner was a "bon voyage" on his trip to Germany which starts Friday night when the Europa sails.

Some fifteen friends comprised the group, with Louis G. Genkinger, president of the Chamber of Commerce acting as toastmaster. Each guest spoke briefly and all of them voiced in different words the well wishes they had for the honor guest.

Replying, Mr. Haun expressed his pleasure at the action of his friends. He said that he was looking forward to a period of rest after two years continuous work, almost night and day.

Mr. Haun leaves for New York City where he will join his son-in-law, Dr. James K. Pollock, a member of the faculty of the University of Michigan, who has been called to the Saar Valley by the League of Nations to aid in conducting the plebiscite on January 13. Friday at midnight they will sail on the S. S. Europa from New York City.

The final proof of greatness lies in being able to endure criticism without resentment.

December Was Nearer Normal

Figures Compiled By U. S. Weather Observer Show Temperature Near Normal

DEFICIENCY IN RAINFALL SHOWN

December was nearer normal than most of the months last year, as far as weather conditions were concerned, the figures of U. S. Weather Observer B. F. Johnson show.

There was a deficiency of a half a degree a day in the temperature and 39 inches in precipitation.

The complete record for the month shows the following:

Mean maximum, 38.3 degrees; mean minimum, 22.6 degrees; mean, 30.5 degrees. The highest temperature was 73 degrees on the first, while the lowest was one degree on the 11th. The greatest daily range was 31 degrees on the 29th.

The total precipitation for the month was 2.19 inches, and the greatest in 24 hours was .68 inches on the first. There was 4.3 inches of snow fall during the month. Days with 0.1 inches or more of precipitation were 20. Days clear were one; partly cloudy, 14; and cloudy, 18.

The normal precipitation for December is 2.19 inches, and the normal temperature is 30.8 degrees.

In 1933 the temperature was one degree above the normal mark, in spite of the fact that there were two cold snaps when the lowest temperatures recorded were four above and four below. The precipitation was 1.13 inches above the normal. The snowfall last year in December was 6.5 inches.

Anne Lindbergh To Confront Hauptmann As State's Witness

By MARGARET GARRAHAN
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 3.—A mother today faces the man charged with murdering her first child.

Anne Lindbergh for the first time today was to confront Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the man charged by the state of New Jersey with taking her child from his crib, killing him and leaving his body along the roadside while his mother sat pleas to the world for the care of the baby.

The man she is facing today was the calmest man in the courtroom here yesterday. He doesn't glance at his wife or Col. Lindbergh, the father of the murdered child, who is sitting only six feet away. He is merely watching his counsel, Edward J. Reilly, hoping that Reilly will select a jury favorable to himself, and at times he directs his own defense.

Chief Witness

But Anne, daughter of the late Dwight W. Morrow, revered throughout New Jersey, is the witness upon whom the state rests for the clinching testimony—that of a mother bereaved by the loss of her only child. It is the emotional appeal of this woman to the jury that the defense fears more than all factual material she may be able to give.

Entering the courtroom with the murdered baby's mother today was to be the nursemaid who tucked him into bed the night of the kidnapping—Betty Gow, the little Scotch girl who returned from Glasgow on Christmas day to aid in avenging the baby's death.

Aside from identifying the baby's sleeping garments and recounting events preceding the kidnapping, Betty Gow is expected to prove that the baby was either dead or fatally wounded before he was 100 yards away from the Lindbergh home.

With Mrs. Ollie Wheatley, widow of the Lindbergh butler, she discovered the baby's thumb-guard, tied as she had fixed it on the baby's wrist before putting him to bed.

Miss Gow testified that she

During this time, the patrol maintained a four-to-one advantage in the cases tried in the courts, getting four convictions for every defendant discharged. Of 896 cases disposed of by the end of October, 728 resulted in convictions and 168, in discharges.

COLDS ARE NOW REACHING OUT FOR VICTIMS!

Be Wise—Be Careful—Adopt This Simple Precautionary Measure!

Colds are increasing. In some sections influenza is breaking out. Don't be alarmed, but don't be careless.

A cold is much easier avoided than cured! Do the sensible thing and adopt the ounce of prevention policy. Stay out of crowds as much as you can. Avoid coughers and sneezers. Dress warmly, keep your feet dry and sleep in a well-ventilated room.

Every morning and night take a tablet or two of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. This will keep the bowels open and combat infection by cold germs.

Millions know Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine as an excellent cold remedy, but not enough know it as an equally excellent preventive.

Kraft Impressed With Westminster

Former New Castle News Sport Writer And Grove City Floor Star Praises Titans

Saw Westminster Defeat St. Johns At Madison Square Garden In New York

John Kraft, now located in New York City, better known as "Johnny" to countless hundreds of New Castle basketball fans and football fans, former New Castle News sport writer, and later basketball star at Grove City College, witnessed the recent Westminster-St. Johns floor game at Madison Square Garden, New York City, and was so impressed with the Titans that he sent the following letter to the city editor of The News.

"It was a wonderful game in a perfect setting. Imagine—if you can—16,138 spectators at a basketball game. Some crowd! And to think that hundreds were turned away from the Garden. The price scale of seats ranged from $2.20 down to 75c but at game time spectators were demanding three and four dollars for the best seats (and getting it) while the cheapest seats were sold with ease for $1.50. And we're in a depression period?

"Westminster lived up to advance notices and bottled up its foe nicely with its cleverly executed zone defense. St. Johns provided plenty of opposition for the Blue and White, but Johnny Lawther apparently had his boys primed for the game and they came through in fine style. It was a thrilling game, particularly in the closing stages. Westminster played a deliberate slow-passing game—refused to be hurried even in the waning minutes of play—but when the boys needed a couple of markers they never failed of accomplishments. Westminster managed to retain possession of the ball the greater part of the game and almost without exception retrieved the ball from St. Johns' back-board.

Praises Bennett

"This chap Wes Bennett won the plaudits of the fans. He without a doubt is one of the country's finest court performers. His play bordered on the sensational. By caging seven field goals and seven foul tries out of seven attempts he accomplished something that no individual performer has been able to do against a St. Johns' team in the history of the university. Including Peters of Notre Dame and Rubenstein of New York University, which institutions also played Saturday night, Bennett was by far the outstanding player on the hardwoods. Hunneke also performed brilliantly. All of the boys played well. It was easily discernible that the Westminster quintet took the game more seriously than the other clubs. The boys—naturally—were out to win—and their play and actions during periods of "times-out" was exemplified by a spirit of friendliness—little things like a "pat" on the shoulder—a hearty hand-shake among the players—all augmented by the fact that Coach Johnny Lawther was with his boys at all times made the Westminster team vastly different than St. Johns', N. Y. U., or Notre Dame. Westminster also displayed fine sportsmanship and New York City fans are quick to notice such fine qualities in any club.

Floor Loose

"The basketball court laid out in the garden was made up of running boards which are used on the indoor track for the big track and field meets. The floor was not solid and as a result the game was quite noisy. Glass backboards were used.

and they worked out very well. Westminster appeared to be "at home" on the huge indoor court. The Garden had eight or ten ball-boys around the court to retrieve the basketball when it was tossed out of bounds. A staff of approximately 30 sports writers covered the game.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Casey Stengel hopes to acquire Curt Davis, sensational rookie with the Phils or Ed. Brandt, Boston Braves, for mound duty with the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National league. Casey has not stated whom he has picked for the trade.

Davis who was passed up by the Giants when he was offered to them by a Pacific coast league club and picked up by the Phils for $4,500, won 19 games with the Quakers despite a weak-hitting club behind him.

Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, and his barnstorming American All-Stars arrived yesterday at Victoria, B. C. and declared that Babe Ruth played better baseball in the land of the Nipponese than he did during his past two seasons with the Yankees. He led the All-Stars in hitting, outdistancing such swatters as Bing Miller, Lou Gehrig and Jimmy Fox. He declared the caps gave a wonderful reception to the players and sometimes almost mobbed them in their desire to pay personal tribute to Ruth who personifies the game to millions of Orientals who follow it. Mack said that with better pitching and hitting the Japanese clubs would be formidable, although they are handicapped by their small size. He said the teams had two or three good looking prospects but added that most of their men are only equal to our Class A players.

Although his ring name is Babe Risko he was known to Uncle Sam as Henry Pylkowski when he served in the Navy and now since knocking out Teddy Yarosz, the Syracuse boy is being sought by fistie promoters in different parts of the country. He rolled Yarosz five times before the referee, at Yarosz request, stopped the fight. The middleweights fought at a poundage in excess of the mid-dleweight limit, which saved Teddy's crown. No doubt promoters will try to line Yarosz for a titular match with Risko. Teddy injured his leg in the first round and as the fight progressed he could not move away from Risko's assault or flash one of his own effectively and finally became Risko's prey.

Among deaths from all causes about 16 per cent are attributed to heart disease and of these 90 per cent are in persons over 40 years of age.

The New Castle offensive attack this year is built around Henry Koszela, a flashy forward who has been unstoppable to date. Carl is fast developing into a classy performer and so is Dal Mumford. The center job is still in doubt with Joe Nahas doing good work, but is not very tall.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

Letters Intended For This Column Must Be Signed With Name And Address Of Writer.

RHODODENDRONS, ETC.

In your column, "Pa News Observes," I notice in the Monday edition a paragraph by Owen Penfield Fox on the growing of Rhododendrons. Before I read this, I had just come from the Public Library where I had been looking at the books on botany, landscaping, and gardening.

If I am not mistaken, there are about one hundred books on these subjects in the library. Anyone who is interested in gardening, botany, horticulture, etc., can get all the information they require from these books. Of course, the volumes are somewhat scattered and hard to find, but "when the library gets in the old post office building, conditions will be so much better."

Returning to the subject, Rhododendrons, I will say this: About six years ago, on a large estate, I set out fifty Rhododendrons as individual shrubs. They are ideal for this purpose, and (as Mr. Fox stated) if the soil is prepared as it should be for all Ericaceous plants, the Rhododendrons will give a wealth of springtime beauty, combined with foliage which remains green throughout the winter.

To those who are interested in plant life, I will suggest two books to read, "The Story of the Plants" by Grant Allen; and "The Plant World" by C. S. Gager, director of the New York Botanic Garden. This last book can be borrowed from the Public Library.

Closing my letter, I will quote a couplet from Wordsworth, which is above the entrance to the children's building in the New York Botanic Garden:

"The happiest who hath power to gather wisdom from a flower."

Signed,
WALTER WARNER,
New Castle, Pa.

Hardware Store Gutted By Fire

Fire Of Undetermined Origin In Cartwright Hardware Store Last Night

ESTIMATE COMPLETE DAMAGE OVER $25,000

Heroic Battle Of Local Firemen Saves Adjacent Stores And Offices

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 3.—Only through the hard work of the Ellwood City fire department was an important business district on Lawrence avenue, between Fifth and Sixth streets, saved from annihilation by flames when a fire of undetermined origin gutted the Cartwright hardware store and damaged somewhat no less than seven other places of business last night about 9 o'clock.

It was only after a three-hour battle by the firemen that the flames were subdued, and the situation under control. Explosives in the basement added fuel to the fire and had the rear of the building enveloped in flames. When these were vanquished the entire block was engulfed in smoke.

Rescue Trapped Woman

Firemen Art Duncan and Tom Slater rescued Mrs. Lonnie Withrow from a precarious position. When the fire had been discovered at six o'clock by David Cartwright, owner of the building, it was well on its way. It had started in the basement and he noticed smoke seeping through the floor. He immediately sounded the alarm. It was not until after the arrival of the fire department that Mrs. Withrow, in the second story of the building, became aware of her danger. When she attempted to retreat to the street down the front stairway, she was cut off by smoke and flames. She dashed for the rear of the building, but found it a smoldering furnace.

It was at this time that the two firemen placed a ladder to the second story window. Mrs. Withrow was taken down the ladder and rescued from her predicament.

Started In Furnace Room

The fire is believed to have started in the furnace room and was undetected by Mr. Cartwright, who still had his place open for business, until it had reached the main floor.

The firemen fought the flames from the front and rear of the building. They had a serious time when the flames came in contact with shotguns and carbide. When the flames had finally been placed under control the firemen entered the building and got to the source. With two main water lines of hose, several smaller ones and chemicals, the firemen in due time had ended all danger. Smoke and gas masks had to be used continually. It was a creditable piece of work by the local fire department, who kept the flames from endangering the business block. Although adjoining stores and business offices in the second story of the Cartwright building did not escape damage.

Damage Is Great

Fire Chief H. T. Plante estimated that over $25,000 damage was done by the fire. There was probably $6,000 damage done to the building and $10,000 to the stock within the hardware store, he said. The adjoining stores of Mazer's and Silverblatt's suffered about $500 each, he reported. The exact damage to the offices of Dr. B. M. Lawther, Dr. Fred Swanson and Mrs. Emory's beauty shop on the second floor of the Cartwright building has not been appraised as yet. Also there was damage suffered to a small structure near the rear of the building.

It was last Tuesday morning, only three doors down, that a dangerous fire occurred in the Simon building and did several thousand dollars worth of damage.

Insurance was carried on much of the loss.

Tomei Stars For Mechanical Five When They Gain 26-23 Verdict At Shelby

INSPECTION DEFEATS BAR MILL QUINTET

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 3.—With a brilliant performance of Red Tomei the Mechanical passers of the Shelby Inter-department Basketball league nosed out the Office five at the auditorium Wednesday night by a 26-23 score. In the second game of the evening the Inspection team kept pace with the Gold Draw by defeating the Bar Mill 34-31.

It was largely through the work of Tomei and Arnold that the Mechanics rang up a victory over their opponents. The former accounted for 14 points and the latter half that number. The victors held a slight lead from the second quarter after the first had been tied at 13 all.

Friedhoff, Fitzgerald and Lattano collaborated splendidly to gain a hard-fought verdict over the Bar Mill. Follet and Harris played a bang-up game for the losers. It was a last-half rally that won for the Inspection.

Super-Commission Plan Is Advanced

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Creation of a federal super-commission of transportation dealing with rail, water, air and highways, has been recommended to President Roosevelt by an inter-departmental committee consisting of Secretary of War Dorn, Secretary of Commerce Roper and Railroad Coordinator Joseph B. Eastman, it was learned today.

The recommendations and plans have met with the approval of the president, it was said.

Under the proposal, the various existing federal transportation agencies would be continued but under the jurisdiction of the super commission.

A fifth duty of the proposed commission would be to increase American foreign commerce and shipping.

The proposal was discussed today by Roper, who said the study of the inter-departmental committee submitted to the president had considered the best instrumentality for such a commission to cover the whole transportation system. Roper pointed out that each transportation arm was so involved with the other that the committee found the creation of such a commission advisable.

It was pointed out that the new commission would be empowered to fix rates and take over certain other duties of the present Interstate Commerce Commission, but that the ICC would be continued.
